Child Abuse Prevention Services Receives $5,000 Grant from The Slomo & Cindy Silvian Foundation

LONG ISLAND, NY: Child Abuse Prevention Services (CAPS) has received a $5,000 grant from The Slomo & Cindy Silvian Foundation to support the CAPS Bully Prevention Center and Keeping Kids Safe bully prevention program. CAPS is Long Island's leading non-profit resource on the prevention of bullying, child abuse and neglect, and provider of youth violence prevention and child safety education to Nassau and Suffolk county elementary, middle and high schools.

"We are so grateful to The Slomo & Cindy Silvian Foundation and their support of our mission to keep every child safe from harm. Their grant will assist us in expanding, enhancing and intensifying our efforts to deliver CAPS bully prevention and cyber-bully programs to more than 7,500 elementary and middle school students across Long Island," said Alane Fagin, Executive Director. "It is only through the generosity of funders that we are able to continue to provide our student programs to schools at no cost."

The CAPS Bully Prevention Center combines the agency's signature in-school programs for children, prevention workshops for parents, staff development and training for school professionals and Helplines, with parent coaching and strategies toward creating concrete solutions. CAPS K-12 prevention-through-education programs speak to children about bully and cyber-bully prevention, child abuse and neglect, relational aggression, sexual harassment, date/acquaintance rape and Internet safety. Our email Helpline and BullyHelpline are answered by CAPS professionals with expertise in bullying and child safety issues.

CAPS is a 501(c)(3) organization underwritten by private donations and grants. Volunteers are urgently needed. For information call 516-621-0552 ext. 104 or to make a donation visit www.capsli.org.
